

Hallie Wilkey now recovering at home from ATV accident

Community showers family with prayers and support

Daniel Richardson

Hallie Wilkey, a 15-year-old cheerleader at Hickman County High School, fell victim to a horrific ATV accident last Tuesday as she was riding trails at her grandmother's house. At around 7:30 p.m., Hallie lost control of her ATV and was thrown off. The four-wheeler then rolled on top of her, crushing her pelvis.

Alone in the woods, Hallie estimates that she lay on the ground for about 30 minutes before realizing that her cell-phone was in reach. She called her cousin, Kevin Norris, and told him what had happened. Kevin then went to the house and got Hallies father, Karl Wilkey, and the two left to find Hallie. Before the two men arrived, Hallies younger sister Kadey Grace (10) and cousin Ari Soden happened upon the scene and waited with Hallie. When Karl arrived at the scene of the accident, he called Hallie's mother, Lisa, and explained what had happened.

Karl realized that his daughter had no feeling in and could not move her legs.

Hallie's mom called an ambulance, and that crew responded quickly, following ATVs to get as close to Hallie as they could. Upon arriving on foot, EMTs quickly assessed Hallie's condition, loaded her on a stretcher, and carried her out to the ambulance.

When ambulance staff member told Sandy Pickard told Lisa that Hallie would have to be flown to Vanderbilt, Lisa was comforted by a familiar face among the Air Evac staff. Her old friend, Kendra Tibbs, was part of the medical staff that would be accompanying Hallie on the flight to Nashville.

"It was such a relief to have someone I know up there with her," Lisa said. Tibbs was able to send Lisa updates via text messages as they flew towards Nashville.

When Lisa and Karl arrived at the trauma center they were greeted with the good news that Hallie was in stable condition, and no surgery was needed.

Hallie came home on Friday evening, much sooner than expected. She is getting around on a walkerbecause she still cannot put any weight on her left leg. She is expected to rely on the walker for about two months before being able to move independently. She is still in a lot of pain and is sleeping for most of the day.

Hallies family is especially grateful to the Hickman County Community for all the cards, thoughts, and prayers. "We are Christians, and we believe in the power of prayer," Lisa Wilkey said on Monday.

A Facebook Page called "Prayers for Hallie Wilkey" has been created and can be accessed at <https://www.facebook.com/Prayforhallie>. The page already has more than 700 Likes and has lots of photos and posts updating followers on Hallie's recovery process.

Collins accepts new role as high school principal

Charlotte Smith

A familiar face in a new role will greet students, faculty, and staff at Hickman County High School this fall.

Perry Collins stepped into the role as principal on Monday, July 1. After seven years as high school assistant principal, transportation director for the district, and 14 total years in the school system, Collins was the logical choice for the site-base council.

"It is my pleasure to announce the selection by the site-base council to hire Mr. Perry Collins as the new principal for the Hickman County High School," stated Casey Henderson, district assistant superintendent, late last week. "Mr. Collins has proven results in leadership as the transportation director/assistant principal over the past six years within our district, and we are confident he can do the same in his new role." Henderson added, "A special thanks goes out to our council for their dedication to the hiring process of this school."

Collins was selected from six applicants, replacing Larry Farlee, who retired last month. Farlee became HCHS principal in October 2006, finishing out his 32 years experience in education in that leadership position.

Collins has a strong reputation for providing the students of Hickman County a good foundation, and he encourages the faculty, staff, students and community to think of him as family.

"My wife Shannon is an instructional assistant at the elementary school, our son Morgan is a recent graduate of HCHS, and our daughter Gabby is in the seventh grade," he said. "So I am connected to the school and community in many ways, and I encourage an open-door policy.

"My door is always open, and I plan on treating everyone just like family," he added, "because they are a part of my family. I want

City council to look into Blair St. Park flooding

Daniel Richardson

Clinton City Administrator Allen Poole may soon be certified to operate the city's sewer system if the Clinton City Council agrees to send him to two one-week courses later this year.

At Monday night's regular monthly meeting of the council, the topic of the sewer system was approached, and Administrator Poole and Mayor Tommy Kimbro suggested that the council look into sending Poole to obtain the certification. Poole said that he had been in contact with James Leonard about the process of obtaining the certification.

Water system manager John Turner is currently pursuing certification as operator of the sewer system, independent of this city-requested certification.

Strict guidelines must be adhered to when operating a city's sewer system, and the system must be operated by a certified person.

Currently, the City of Clinton pays $600 per month for a certified operator available to perform basic tasks involved with operating the sewer. If Poole obtained the certification, this expense could be avoided.

Some of the council members were wary that certifying Poole could potentially result in an alteration of the city administrator's job description and/or salary. Mayor

Senior Citizens scream for ice cream

Charlotte Smith

Do you remember this -- I scream, you scream, we all scream for ice cream!

On Thursday, June 27, the Adult Day Care folks at the Hickman County Senior Citizens Center made homemade ice cream -- in plastic bags.

Sounds simple enough, and it was! Even I got in on the action, just had to check this out!

All you need are five simple ingredients and two Ziploc bags, one quart-size and one gallon-size. To the quart-size bag you add 1 tsp. of vanilla, 1/4 cup of sugar (or 2 packs of Splenda or Equal), and one cup of milk.

The gallon-size bag holds 2 cups of ice and 1/2 cup of rock salt. (Look to the recipe card for the directions.) The sealed quart-size bag with

Collision Clinic chooses Clinton as its home

Collision Clinic co-owners James Stepp (left) and Jeff Ursery opened shop last month on N. Washington St. in Clinton. The pair boasts a combined 60+ years experience.

With over 60 years of combined experience, James Stepp and Jeff Ursery of Collision Clinic in Clinton provide the prime establishment to visit when you're in need of auto body or paint work.

Stepp gained many of his years' experience working under the tutelage of his father at A1 Body Shop in Union City, Tenn. Ursery, who has worked at both A1 and at Collision Specialty, also in Union City, has worked alongside Stepp for many years.

Their years of working together make them the perfect pair to do not only body work on vehicles in need, but also glass installation and repair, framework and unibody framework. Unibody refers to the process of welding together many sheet metal parts to form a single unit.

Stepp and Ursery have gained experience both in the shop and in the classroom. They both attended classes at the technical school in Union City and have attended Martin Senour color-matching school. General Motors school for paint is also part of Ursery's resume, and Stepp has been as far as Dallas, Texas, to attend the Sherwin Williams paint school.

"We are both ASE (Automotive Service Excellence) certified and I-Car certified," stated Stepp. "We have our own metal lux paint system on site." This enables them to mix all their own paint colors, using European tints.

Stepp has also taught classes on auto body repair at the Obion County Career and Technical Community School.

Kimbro and Poole both verified that if Poole were to gain the certification, neither his salary nor his job description would be altered, but his certification would be only an additional asset to the city.

After discussion, the council was on-board with the idea and tasked Poole with gathering information about cost to the city. The two certification courses are scheduled for October and late November, and council members seemed pleased to have time to reconsider this request.

Though Clinton Police Chief Snapper Seaton’s report to the council was brief, the local police department was showered with praise by Poole and several members of the council for their recent actions and follow-up research into the recent burglaries of businesses in Clinton.

Poole gave a brief update on the progress of the streetlight project along the north side of the court square. He said that the trenches were still being dug for the conduit and that the lights will be going up once the trenching is finished.

The council passed a revised pay scale for entry-level city jobs. Mayor Kimbro explained that the scale had not been adjusted for the past eight years and was seriously out of date.

Among the city positions listed was City Superintendent. Kimbro explained that the position had been on the pay scale since before he became mayor and has never been filled. The purpose of the position is to have someone to oversee the city’s public works in the event that the city chooses to operate any or all of the public works, such as sewer, water, gas, and electricity. Kimbro said without question that he does not intend to fill this position.

Several guests attended the meeting, most of whom were there to speak about the proposed Blair Street park project. Green Valley Missionary Baptist pastor Bro. Eugene McDonald spoke first and noted that before any upgrading and beautification can be done at the park, an issue with flooding must be dealt with.

The mayor and council agreed to look into the issue and see what they could do, especially about cleaning out the west side of the Water Street bridge that is severely overgrown. The overgrowth of the creek contributes to the flooding.

Kimbro said that the creek had been professionally cleaned out several years ago at a cost of approximately $16,000. Bro. McDonald, Cherry Pyron, and councilwoman Phyllis Campbell all suggested that if the city gets the project started and clears out the large brush, interested volunteers would be willing to help maintain the cleared property. It was also suggested that the entire creek, from a point on East Jackson Street into the Blair Street neighborhood that was addressed years ago, need not be cleaned out at this time, just the immediate area that affects the park.

Councilwoman Betty Morrow suggested that Poole investigate a similar clearing project undertaken last spring by the City of Columbus that was grant-funded and provided not only a workforce but also a small amount of equipment for the project.

Kimbro reminded the visitors that the city has already committed to place shrubbery to create a protective perimeter between the park and the street and asked that they submit a bid for the plant material. The next meeting of the community group will be on Thursday, July 11, at Green Valley church fellowship hall, and the council meeting visitors agreed to gather that information for the next council meeting.

Martha Holbrook, who attended last month’s meeting to talk about a flooding issue at her residence on Angular St., asked what progress had been made to alleviate the flooding in that neighborhood. Poole said that during the past month, he had been snowed under with the sewer project on North Jefferson and that he is beginning to look more seriously into the issue, promising to follow through for Mrs. Holbrook.

The mayor and city council went into a closed session to discuss real estate sale and personnel. After a brief closed session with no action taken, the meeting continued in open session and adjourned.

The next scheduled meeting of the Clinton City Council is Monday, Aug. 5, at 6 p.m. in the Clinton City Hall.

Farms to Food Banks programs assists farmers and low-income Kentuckians

Charlotte Smith

Hickman County is rich in agricultural heritage with farmers among the biggest economic drivers within the county.

One way to strengthen this agricultural community in Hickman County and across the Commonwealth of Kentucky is to increase cash flow for farmers.

The Farms to Food Banks program, this year in its third in the state, allows the Kentucky Association of Food Banks the opportunity to purchase Kentucky-grown surplus and Number 2-grade produce (fresh and edible but not usually saleable on the retail market) for distribution to low-income Kentuckians.

Added benefits of this program are the increased access to healthy food among low-income Kentuckians and reduction of the amount of wasted food in Kentucky.

“The intent is not to compete with other buyers, but rather to use grant funds to pay fair prices that help farmers recoup losses for what they wouldn’t have been able to sell otherwise,” explains Tamara Sandberg, association executive director. “Last summer we worked with 217 producers from 49 counties and paid them an average of $973 each for produce they might not have been able to sell in other markets.”

“I heard about the program, and I thought it was a good way to help others and keep from wasting food that I couldn’t sell elsewhere,” stated Graves County farmers David and Fran Purcell. “This will be our second year participating in the program.”

How it Works

- Maximum prices per unit are set each growing season in consultation with specialists from the University of Kentucky and Kentucky State University;
- Produce auction and cooperative managers arrange for the purchase of Kentucky-grown produce from farmers and oversee its delivery to food banks;

- Farmers can also make direct sales to the association. They are responsible for transporting the produce to the food banks.

Through this program, nearly a million pounds of fresh produce has been distributed to struggling Kentuckians in 108 counties. (See Food Bank box) The only requirement for farmers’ participation in the program is that the produce is grown in Kentucky.

“We’ll work with any Kentucky farmer who is interested in providing the types of produce listed on our crops list (see below) within the price caps based on recent market information,” added Sandberg. “Interested farmers from Hickman County should contact me at 859-358-6719 to set up delivery arrangements.”

“As long as I am raising produce, I will continue to participate in the program,” added David Purcell. “It is unnecessary to waste food, especially when it can be sent to help those in need. This is a beneficial program that I am proud to participate in. Other farmers should participate because it is a great way to help those in need, keep from wasting food, and make a little money in the process.”

The Kentucky Association of Food Banks is a charitable organization committed to ending hunger in Kentucky.

Escape attempt thwarted at Hickman County Detention Center

On Sunday, June 23rd, deputies at the Hickman County Detention Center received information that an escape was being planned for that day. Lt. Jeff Rogers and Deputy Todd Sanderson immediately began an investigation that led them to Inmate Jack Cooler. Inmate Cooler had braided a makeshift rope from blankets and wrapped it around his body concealed under his orange jumpsuit. Officials believe he had planned to escape through the secure recreation area on the west side of the facility. He was also found in possession of maps of neighboring states and a weapon he had fashioned from a piece of metal. "I don't think his plan would've worked," said Jailer Chad Frizzell. "Actually, I think he would have been disappointed to find out that once he scaled that 20 ft. brick wall that the chain link serving as a 'ceiling' is tightly secured in concrete and steel. Regardless, we take all escape plans and attempts very seriously. It is frightening to imagine what he was planning to do to one of my deputies with the weapon he had made." Lt. Jeff Rogers of the Hickman County Detention Center charged Inmate Cooler with Promoting Contraband 1st degree, a class D felony. The Kentucky State Police are investigating the attempted escape and further charges are pending. Inmate Cooler is incarcerated on an 8 year sentence for Burglary and Persistent Felony Offender from Jefferson Circuit Court and is awaiting transfer to the Kentucky Department of Corrections.

The 4th

By the time many of you will be reading this the 4th of July will be here. We are printing a day early so that most may wonder why they are getting their newspaper in the mail on Wednesday instead of Thursday. Just like most of the rest of the country, our offices are closed not only Thursday, but also Friday. So many holidays are designated for Mondays, which are very tough days for us to work around. Our staff has worked very hard last week and this to print ahead of schedule in some cases. We take this space to wish all readers a Happy 4th of July and hope that it is both a safe and enjoyable holiday. In our case it will be a four-day weekend, a rarity in our business. Be careful in the lakes and waterways and enjoy some nice grilled stuff while spending quality time with family. Two of our four children are planning to make it home. The other two just can't. But we will be able to see them later in the summer. A neat aspect is that the two who plan to come account for all four of our grandchildren. We look forward to seeing them enjoy the pool and fellowship with other family members. I do not begrudge the fact that our president is in Africa at such a big cost to us. But of all times, he should be in the USA this week especially, in my opinion. The trip to Africa alone is projected to cost us $100 million, a hefty sum considering sequester-related budget cuts. Rep. George Holding (R-NC) made a good point in relating the cost of this trip. "For the cost of this trip to Africa, you could have 1,350 weeks of White House tours," Holding said on the floor of the House. While considering the anniversary of the United States, it seems pointless to state how much our national debt is and how much we must cut back on military, education, and the like, when spending by the administration is out of control. I hope the administration takes long, hard looks at future spending plans and expensive trips that require so many airplanes to carry 56 vehicles, including 14 limousines, and all the bullet-proof hotel window

Customers can also call 1-800-ASK-USPS or visit www.usps.gov for additional information. All Post Offices will be closed Thurs, July 4, and there will be no regular mail delivery except for Express Mail. Regular mail delivery will take place on July 5 and 6. All Post Offices will resume regular retail hours on Sat, July 6. Customers can take advantage of Automated Postal Centers (APC) at select locations. SENIOR CHATTER

With TAMMIE

Upcoming Events: Pie pick up is on July 3 from 12-2 p.m. The following pies will be sold: Apple, Cherry, Chocolate, Chocolate Chess, and Coconut. We feel confident we could open a bakery by now! So, if you forgot to order your pie for the July 4th holiday, please call us and get it in today!

Thank you for placing your orders at the senior center. We are using our pie fundraisers proceeds to help buy carpet for our center. We are going to be starting a monthly pancake breakfast fundraiser on July 11 and we will be going around the day before to get orders from our community. We will deliver or you can pick up from 8 to 10 a.m. We are going to start selling homemade rolls and cinnamon rolls soon. The senior center will be closed for the July 4 Holiday!

We have received no phone calls on our landscaping and we need help with it. Please call or come by if you can do anything to help us with it. We want it to look good, but we have limited funds and could use some assistance.

Do not hesitate to call if you have a loved one that would like to join our Adult Day Care. We have one more opening! Therefore, if you know of a senior that is 60 or older and would enjoy coming to our Adult Day Care T-F from 9:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m., please call us and let us know. Our seniors participate in activities daily and have breakfast, lunch, and a snack provided.

We have funds available in our Homecare lunch. So, if you are concerned about a senior or you yourself are one and need a daily hot lunch, please come by the senior center and we will sign you up. We want to help every senior we can. So, do not hesitate to come by where we can be of service to you.

We have installed new doors in our workout facility, which enables your workout to not have any interruptions from our senior day services that we provide. We had two new people join this week and are very excited about our community getting fit! Also, please don't think you have to be a pro to get started with our exercise facility or Zumba! It is a process and you must start out slow. Remember it is a way of life and if everyone was perfect we certainly wouldn't need to have any type of exercise, but just know we are not perfect and we sweat and breathe hard right along with you! In fact, I feel I am barely making it some days, but what encourages me is everyone coming and motivating me! So, what are you waiting on? We have Zumba on Tuesday and Thursdays at 6pm. We can offer a class later or earlier if the need is there. It's $3 per time and if you come twice in a week it is only $5. If you are a member in our workout facility and pay $20 already then you can just add $10 to that and have unlimited exercise and aerobics twice a week for just $30 a month! We have been doing Zumba, but we are willing to do a class of lower impact, as well. Likewise, the exercise facility is starting to get more members now. The first time is free and each additional time during your first month is $3.

If you would like to rent our building for a birthday, anniversary, baby shower, etc. The rental fee is $50 with a $25 cleaning fee. The cleaning fee is returned if you leave the building in good condition. We appreciate your support.

The Wilderness Voice

By Pastor Tom Hoskins

COHABITING. Pollsters (as if we didn't know) tell us America is redefining marriage. I wrote this before the recent Supreme Court decision. Maybe I'll address that next time. The estimate is, in a twenty ten survey, there were seven and a half million Americans living together as a couple, cohabiting and raising children without the benefit or giving any thought of marriage. That is probably a low figure given that this is twenty thirteen. Such folk pattern their lives after Hollywood, or as I prefer to call it, and I believe with God's approval, Hollywood.

The Bible says, "Hell has enlarged herself." Perhaps certain angels are kept busy expanding hell as this nation and others prepare themselves for it. "Be not deceived: God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man (or nation) sows, that shall he also reap." The Bible is clear, "Thou shall not commit adultery." This isn't just a sexual relationship outside of one's marriage, but the same act between unmarried people is also adultery.

We wonder why things are going so awry in our land these days, why so much unrest and turmoil, why no one trust America. The above issue is just one among many that is bringing us under the judgment of a Holy God.

"Return unto me and I will return to you saith the Lord."

ALLEN-We would like to thank all of those who has thought of us during and after Bo's accident. There have been so many people that have shown us so much kindness. We have received cards, phone calls, visits and most importantly your prayers. We would also like to say a special Thank You to the Hickman County Rescue Squad, Justin Jackson, Bro. Kevin Clark and Jimbo Berry. The support you gave us that day was so appreciated. We want to express our gratitude to God for the protection he gave Bo the day of the accident and for this community that we live in. There is no place we would rather be than right here in Hickman County surrounded by all of you.

Sincerely
Bo and Barbara Allen

LOCAL NEWS/EDUCATION

Local history buff publishes ‘We rode with Devil Forrest’

Charlotte Smith

History buff Don Livingston collaborated with Jared Bellamey gathering information for the book “We rode with Devil Forrest,” which is a story of the post-war Veterans with a lot of attention paid to the Forrest Cavalry Corps. The book is available for purchase at both the Hickman and Fulton public libraries for $20. “Those interested in purchasing the book can also contact me at 731-479-9726 and I will mail them a copy for an additional $3,” added Livingston.

For Livingston putting all the information together in a book for publication was a labor of love and is only a part of what Livingston is interested in. “I am interested in the entire Civil War,” stated Livingston. “The Corps came of interest because of its local connections.”

A variety of sources were utilized by Livingston and Bellamey when they were compiling their information including the internet, Confederate Veteran magazines, the series of books entitled “The War of the Rebellion”, local collections and many other places. Some of the photos are from personal collections.

Livingston and Bellamey provide a brief review of the life and military history of Nathan Bedford Forrest, born July 13, 1821 in the backwoods of Chapel Hill, Tennessee. It is said that Forrest became a skilled marksman while working on the family farm. When the war broke out on April 12, 1861, Forrest and a couple of his family members enlisted a few months later on June 14, 1861. The book accounts the battles Forrest was involved in during the war. The last speech given by Forrest and several photos along with other pertinent information on the war career of Forrest, years 1877-1896, is also included.

The Corps began in 1897 and the book contains information detailing when it began and theall the way up until its final years which includes information on the last reunion attended by General Henry Ashburn Tyler. The object of the association of the Corps and its members was to bring together annually the soldiers who may at any time have served under the command of Forrest.

Many photos and articles have been accumulated over the years by Livingston and Bellamey while tracing their own family histories, adding to the uniqueness of the book. One article, found on page 96, talks about Tyler’s death stating, “The end came peacefully at the magnificent Tyler homestead, Oakwood Farm, three miles east of Hickman, Ky., (now known as the Goodman house) on Monday morning, April 26, 1915.”

It further states that Tyler graduated from Bethel College in Carroll County, Tennessee and later began the practice of his law profession in Hickman.

Biographies of the members are included and one is that of Edmund Winchester Rucker, who was born July 22, 1835. “A surveyor, he enlisted in Pickett’s company, which was sent to Columbus, Kentucky to mount guns at the fort there,” says the book. “When Columbus was evacuated Rucker’s company went to an overlook of Island No. 10 on the Mississippi River.”

Other biographies contain information of those with additional ties to Fulton and Hickman counties, with some buried in cemeteries in the area. Like William Waller, a member of Captain Henry Tyler’s Co., who is buried at Clark Cemetery in Hickman County. Another is Robert Harper Kirk who was at the 1897 organizational meeting of UCV Camp. J.B. Ward in Hickman. He lived until May 6, 1920 and is buried in the Hickman City Cemetery.

An article from the Hickman Courier, dated October 5, 1906 titled Of Interest to the Veterans of Forrest’s Cavalry is located on page 47 and additional information pertaining to Hickman, Ky. on page 46 at a time when veterans were gathering together “simply as a band of Confederate Cavalrymen upon the march.”

Livingston and Bellamey spent 15 to 20 months collecting all the information they could get their hands on regarding the Corps. “There is probably a great deal more information,” stated Livingston, “but it is either hidden in family attics or has been destroyed over the years.”

Livingston’s Civil War interests stems from gathering family genealogy and history for over 50 years. “I can trace the branches of my family tree back to eleven Revolutionary War Veterans,” noted Livingston.

Clinton in April and opened their doors in May. Union City may have seemed like a more logical choice to set up shop, but Stepp and Ursery chose Clinton for its friendly, small-town atmosphere.

“We chose Clinton because it is a small town and we like the people here,” commented Stepp. “That attracted us to this area.”

Ursery’s comments echo Stepp’s. “I like the community,” added Ursery. “The people in Clinton are some of the nicest people I have ever met.”

“Come by and see what 60+ combined years of experience can provide you for all your car repair needs,” concluded Stepp.

Collision Clinic welcomes all insurance claims.

Stepp resides in South Fulton, Tenn., and Ursery lives in Union City.

our faculty, students and community to be an integral part of our school and that I will continue to have an open door policy and encourage parents and community members to come see me if they would like to discuss anything.” This family-type atmosphere is one feature that attracts so many people to the school district that has achieved ACT scores that are tops in the region.

“I want to continue to build on the strong foundation that has already been laid,” Collins continued. “Hickman County is recognized statewide because of the efforts of our academics, the Falcon Academy is a model that many other high schools across the state have tried to emulate.”

Dealing with a variety of tasks is already second nature to Collins. “As transportation director for the district as well as assistant principal, I had to wear four or five hats,” commented Collins with a smile. “That (number of roles) goes hand-in-hand when you were at a small school district.”

“We have been looking at several candidates to fill that (assistant principal/transportation director) vacancy,” Collins said, “and we hope to make a decision by Wednesday, July 3.” There are local candidates within the system being considered for Collins’ former position.

Collins has a total of 18 years of experience in education, having taught computer science at Fulton County High School before making Hickman County his home. He is a 1983 graduate of Carlisle County and holds BS and MA degrees in education from Murray State University.

Retired teachers honor recent retirees

Jessica Cooley

On Thursday, all of the retired teachers met at Ruby Fayes for breakfast and to discuss some business. The Retired Teachers hold the meetings to honor the newly retired. This meeting was held in honor of Tom Pyron, Larry Farlee, Todd Johnson and Teresa Rose. When asked what keeps them meeting the answer was unanimous, friends and fellowship. The longest retired of the bunch was Coralyn

Bugg, who retired in 1995; she said, “Teaching is a wonderful profession.”

Dos and Don’ts for fireworks this weekend

As the mercury rises, the parties and festivities that have come to signify summer excite revelers far and wide. Summer has become the season of pool parties, trips to the beach, barbecues, and, of course, fireworks.

Love it or hate it, warm weather seems to beckon neighbors out of hibernation and incites a desire to set things on fire. When cooking over an open flame doesn’t satisfy that desire, many take to shooting off bottle rockers and whistlers. But fireworks can still be dangerous, and not everyone is equipped or legally allowed to ignite fireworks. Therefore, to avoid potentially dangerous injuries, fines or arrests, it pays to follow these fireworks dos and don’ts.

DO find out if fireworks are legal in your area. If you have to travel over state lines or into another country to purchase fireworks, there is a good chance you are not allowed to use fireworks in your community. There are many regulations regarding the sale, transport and use of fireworks, so be sure you’re not breaking any laws before buying any fireworks.

DON’T buy fireworks from just anyone. You want to ensure you are purchasing them from a reputable retailer of legal fireworks.

DO check any safety guidelines and warnings on the wrapper of the fireworks before lighting them.

DON’T light fireworks near people, trees, homes, or any combustible materials.

DO keep a fire extinguisher or water hose nearby in the event of a fire. The National Fire Prevention Association notes that the Fourth of July features more reported fires than any other day of the year.

DON’T forget that sparklers and firecrackers are no safer than other types of fireworks. The tip of a sparkler burns at a temperature of more than 1200 F, which is hot enough to cause third-degree burns and is hotter than the temperature it takes to melt glass.

DO leave fireworks to the professionals to avoid injury or fire.

DON’T light more than one firework at a time.

DO wait 15 to 20 minutes after lighting a firework to see if it has ignited. If not, dump the firework in a bucket of water and move on to a fresh firework.

DON’T let small children handle and light fireworks.

DO make every attempt not to store fireworks. If you purchase them, use them all up. However, a cool, out-of-the-way place may suffice for a day or so.

DON’T have any part of your body over the firework when lighting it. Try to use a lit stick or butane lighter to keep as far away as possible.

DO say no to alcoholic beverages when lighting fireworks. Your perception and dexterity can be compromised by alcohol.

DON’T shoot fireworks off in windy conditions. Otherwise, make sure the prevailing wind is blowing away from the audience.

DO wear eye protection when lighting fireworks.

DON’T shoot fireworks off of uneven ground. To ensure stability, always light them on a hard, flat and level surface.

DO use common sense at all times when in the presence of fireworks.

DON’T assume pets and children will enjoy the loud noises. Make accommodations for a quiet respite.

DO make sure spectators keep their distance. They should be 25 to 40 feet away from ground-based items and even further for aerial products.

Fireworks can be beautiful to watch and often signify special moments and celebrations. Safety should always be on the minds of people spending time around fireworks.

ANNUAL MEETING

On Tuesday, June 25, members of Hickman-Fulton Counties RECC enjoyed entertainment and fellowship at their 76th annual meeting at the Hickman County Elementary School gym.

YARD OF THE WEEK - The variety of colors, textures, and heights of the landscaping materials at the Kenneth Jones home at 722 Mayfield Road (Highway 58E) contrast interestingly with the well-trimmed broad lawn, and the tidy borders of the beds that tuck neatly around the corners of the house add to the appeal of this lovely Yard of the Week.

the ice cream mix goes into the larger bag, surrounded by the ice and rock salt. Then the freezing fun begins – and oh, what a payback! Carroll Vance, Bob Claude, Jr., Pauline Rushing, J.C. Jackson, Frances Holbrook, Martha Rushing, Anita Brann, Bettylynn Robinson, and I started shaking our bags, rolling them on the table, and kneading them to mix our ingredients and speed up the freezing process, keeping up these simple gyrations for just 10 minutes! While that strange blend of milk, sugar, ice, salt, and plastic bags did its magic, Martha sang a song rhyming her words as our hands got colder and colder. Pauline wasn't completely convinced it was going to work. "I am not sure I want to eat this," she said skeptically. Bettylynn and Anita reminisced about the good ole' days and the fun of making homemade ice cream in a hand-operated ice cream maker. "My dad had an ice cream maker that sat on the porch, and we would take turns sitting on it while he worked the paddle up and down," said Anita. The favorite part of that long ordeal was pulling the paddle out and winning the privilege of scraping that first ice cream off to eat greedily. Miraculously, that rock salt and ice transformed our milk, sugar, and vanilla into a delectable, cool treat to enjoy on a hot summer day. Even skeptical Pauline sampled a few spoonfuls before passing the rest of her sweet, icy treat to J.C. And I spent an hour with a wonderful group of people who know how to have fun and found a recipe to share with my daughter Jenna. So, no more screaming – grab your plastic bags and ingredients and get shaking!

PRH holds Community Connections luncheons

Charlotte Smith

With a commitment to making our communities better places to live, work and play, members of Parkway Regional Hospital's (PRH) staff held community connections luncheons on June 19 and June 26. With bank professionals, news media personnel and members of the community attending the second luncheon on June 26.

"At PRH, our commitment to healthcare means improving our community members' quality of life, in and out of the hospital," stated Rob Calhoun, CEO at PRH. "Whether it's investing in new technology or finding new ways to volunteer our time and talents, we're always searching for ways to better serve our patients and their families in the neighborhoods where they live, work and play."

During the luncheon, Calhoun touched on a variety of topics worth noting that have taken place at PRH, with a primary area of coverage with a population of 12,327 and a secondary area of coverage of 19,000+.

Recent improvements include Elite Emergency and the ability to hire a smaller amount of doctors working more shifts, which provides patients with a sense of familiarity when visiting their local hospital.

Dana Lawrence, Chief Financial Officer at PRH, discussed the hospital's goal of being a high reliability organization stressing safety, not only for their patients, but employees, as well. "SAFE is one of our mottos," she said. "It stands for Support the team, Ask questions, Focus on the task, and Effective communication."

The seamless transition of the implementation of Tri-Cities EMS on January 1, 2012, is another accomplishment that Calhoun and is staff is proud of at PRH. "We did over 2,000 runs last year and now employee 13 full-time and five part-time employees," Calhoun said. "We have also added two new ambulances to the fleet."

Soon the hospital will welcome Elizabeth Lund, MD, as the newest member of the PRH staff, specializing in Gynecology. She will bring with her a new partner, Robin Freeman MD.

Budgeting criteria, Senior Circle, a community outreach program affecting 540 seniors, were three subjects also talked about during the Wednesday afternoon luncheon.

Wayne Lohaus, in attendance on June 26, had some positive comments to say about his father-in-law's recent visit to PRH. "The staff and facility was wonderful during my father-in-law's visit to PRH," Lohaus said. "I was also a recent patient and I couldn't ask for a better experience."

Other's attending the June 26 luncheon include Deena Pittman (First Community Bank), Lee Ann Hobbs (Reelfoot Bank), Wayne Lohaus, Brad Dame (Citizens Bank), Roger Kephart, Gaye Bencini (Hickman County Times), Charlotte Smith (Hickman Courier and Hickman County Gazette), and PRH employees Jennifer Conner, Gina Leath, Lawrence and Calhoun.
